contribute money had imposed the same conditions as Mr. John M. Forbes did—that none of the subscriptions should pass through the sticky fingers of the ex-Senator from Arkansas; but we cannot regret that he was put in possession of the instruments with which to convolve him.

ments with which to complete his own ruin and establish the innocence of others whose only misfortune and guilt lay in associating with him on terms of equality. The publication of the letters addressed to Mr. Dorsey and Gov. Jewell by several prominent Republicans during the Presidential campaign of 1880 will only serve to deepen the public regret that the ex-Star route thief, through the mistaken clemency of a Washington jury, escaped the imprisonment which he richly deserved in some congenial penilentiary. Persons who have read these letters hoping to find in them an exposure of campaign secrets will be severely disappointed. The letters are not of such a character that anybody need be ashamed of them, or regret seeing them in print. The most noteworthy circumstance connected with their publication is, that but one or two of them were addressed to Dorsey himself. The rest of them were directed to Governor Jewell, and came into the posession of the Star route thief through his accidental connection with the National Committee. He had them under the seal of sacred confidence. The use he has made of them in their publication by a Bourbon Democratic newspaper will make him politically and socially an outcast for all time to come. A man who is capable of stealing and delivering to the press for publication personal letters addressed to another is morally in the position of a robber of the mails. It is easy to celieve that one who can be guilty of such conduct would not be restrained by any price principles of honor from engaging in the Star route conspiracies for which Darsey was tried and queerly acquitted.

Mild Tobacco in Nevada.

Austin Correspondence of the Virginia Enterprise.

In the vacant lois, ravines, and favorable spots in and about Austin, as also in all parts of the State, native wild tobacco grows profusely. It seems to raquire little or no water, but the fresh, green-looking plant grows vigorously in all its sticky, juicy nastiness everywhere. It is simply a filthy weed, which few respectable animals care to browse upon. Over in Como, where I was 20 years ago, an old Missourian, who knew all about tobacco, headed down and trimmed some of the most vigorous plants, and thus succeeded in making quite a perceptibly recognized substitute for real smoking toacco. The Piutes and Shoslones smoke it to a email extent, but they much prefer the white man's tobacco. bloshones smoke it to a small extent, but they much prefer the white man's tobacco. Yet this shows very conclusively that tobacco can be raised in Nevada with the most perfect facility, if not with profit. Tobacco is said to grow in any locality where cabbage can, but in this State it certainly grows in localities where cabbages would perish from thirst or any other nutriment. Perhaps Nevada may become noted as a tobacco-producing State by and by.

ormance in the Chinese theatre in San Francisco for the benefit of the Knights Templar was a stage fight between two warriors, whose method of attack was to jump up in the air, strike the adversary on the chest with the bottoms of both set, and then fall full length on the stage, striking on their backs with terrific force. It was a style of tumbling evidently new to most of the spectators, who applauded vigorously. Another style of gymnastics was much admired. The performer would stand on a chair which was the apex of a pyramid of tables and chairs, turn a somerset in the sir, and land on another chair similarly elevated, with his legs crossed under him like a tailor. This feat was done repeatedly by two performers dressed in a bewildering multitude of baggy trousers, jackets and cloaks. With the ordinary dress of an athlete the feat, is calculated to break both legs of the performor, but dressed as they were it was an astonishing exhibition.

Hinck Eust on Patatoes.

Black Rust on Patatoes.

Erchange.

A serious danger is said to threaten the potato crop of Western New York. The foliage is being attacked by what is known as black rust. It spreads rapidly, and two or three days are sufficient to ruin the entire growth. It has done its work on the fields of the bottom lands, and is now found spotting the vines in many hillside lets. As soon as the vines dry up thus prematurely the popare liself is affected and rots. A Warsaw, N. Y., correspondent says: "A large number of potato growers, who a few days since were anticipating an abundant days since were anticipating an abundant yield, see nothing but the most complete destruction of their crop. The cause is attributed to the very wet summer. The po-tato vines in the garden of your corres-pondent look as if a black frost had occurr.d. The potatoes are just starting to decay n spots."

Kosauth on the Anti-Jewish Ontbreak Kossuth, the veteran Hungarian patriot not only has no sympathy with the anti-Jewish feeling of his country, but has taken Sewain teening on a constraint, but has taken occasion to express the severest condemnation of it. Julia Berecs was found murdered. Sandos charged the Jewess with the crime. She had murdered the girl to procure blood for the Passover. The Jewess wore that Julia Berecs was her dearest friend, that she knew nothing of the crime, nor had even heard of the Talmud and its injunctions. Yet she was sentenced to death. The penalty was commuted to hard labor for life. After two years Sandos destroyed himself, leaving his fortune to the Jewess and a confession that he had murdered the girl. Julia Weiss was, of course, released, but she rejected the proffered heritage.

sppi, Arkaness and his own State does not promise well. The long continued drought in the hill lands especially has injured the plant seriously, maturing it prematurely and cutting off the yield considerably. The caterpillar has hurt the plant in Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana, and a greater loss is feared on this account. Last year the whole of the Mississippi bottom lands were flooded, and they were nat-Last year the whole of the Mississippi bot-tom lands were flooded, and they were par-tially flooded this year, but they will yield, larger this season than last in spite of the caterpillar and drought. Now that over-soft and rotten melons are beginning to be plentiful, the Piutes are almost ready to believe that the millenium is at hand. In the present placid condition of their minds and gorged state of their stomaches they would offer but a feeble, if any, resistance to being baptized into our several churches. There are times and seasons for all things, and the melon season is the time for saving Piutes.
